As with other CLC classes, the primary aim of our Intro to Preschool class is to develop the whole child. We make use of a child's natural curiosity to instill the desire to learn and to make learning satisfying so a child will continue to seek it out. This optimizes a child's brain and body development.

In addition, we aim to support a child's comfortable separation from parents and his/her transition into the classroom when beginning a longer preschool program. By introducing them to the preschool setting and routines while they are accompanied by a parent, we hope to help them build comfort and trust in the setting of a regular preschool program. This can serve as a helpful bridge into a program.

We provide a wealth of inter-related experiences that each child needs to fully develop the brain and the body for optimal performance in later years.
